EASTERN EARLY MUSIC FORUM

The Eastern Early Music Forum exists in the wider East Anglian area to promote interest in medieval, renaissance and baroque music, roughly up to the time of Bach; to provide an information exchange; and to organize opportunities for members to participate in music-making. EEMF has informal links with other Early Music Fora throughout the country and is affiliated to the National Early Music Association.

Our practical workshops are the principal way in which we meet and make music together. We organize several workshops each year, tutored by leading specialists, and held in different parts of the region.

Our website eemf.org.uk contains the most up to date information on our events, plus links to other Early Music Fora and organisations. We also publish a newsletter. The Forum welcomes as members both singers and players, and those with more general or non-participatory interests. No minimum standard is required for most workshops: join in at whatever level you can. All ages are welcome.

The membership subscription is just £6, if paid by standing order, which covers the calendar year, January - December. New members of any age are welcome - but please note that 'Early' refers to the periods of the music, not to the age of participants! Please join us by completing the form attached and returning it to the Membership Secretary. We would prefer you to pay by standing order (which is a fixed annual sum) and you will need to send the accompanying Standing Order form to your bank. We look forward to welcoming you to the Forum.
